MAN IN THE DRIFT.

Mr. Francis W. Doughty's Great Scientific Discovery.

HIS ARCHAEOLOGICAL RESEARCHES

In Various Parts of Massachusetts, Connecticut, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, and in the Immediate Vicinity of Brooklyn ... Curious Tablets Brought to Light Hundreds of Feet Below the Earth's Surface.

At a special meeting of the American Numismatic and Archieological Society, held at the society's rooms, 101 East Twentieth street, New York, a paper of peculiar interest was read by Mr. Francis Worcester Doughty, coin collector and numismatic writer, announcing a series of archeological discoveries made by him in the "drift" in various parts of Massachusetts, Connecticut, New Jersey and Pennsylvania, but principally on Long Island, in the immediate vicinity of Brooklyn.

Accompanying the address was an exhibition of a number of the objects in question, which were taken at depths varying from a few feet below the sur-face of the ground to 200 feet, the latter being from various railroad and other auttings where the drift has been ex-posed; also from the opening for Brook-posed; uses from the opening for Brook-lyn's great sewer, which runs for two miles and more through drift deposits undisturbed since glacial times.

If Mr. Doughty's claims prove to be well founded this discovery is certainly of great scientific interest. In the course of his address—he exhibited at number of objects of a number of objects of a number of objects of a purplish slate carved in the form of the human head and various animals, both of existing and various animals, both of existing and prehistoric types. Also objects made of cast iron. One of these, representing a deer's head, was remarkably perfect, and had a horn welded in the proper place. There were also exhibited a number of curiously shaped tablets, some of baked clay, carved and painted, others of a mixture of iron and lay known to scientific and control of the painted, others of a mixture of iron and clay, known to science as clay fron stones, and one large one which was covered on one side with a substance claimed to be parchinent or skin and painted. On all these tablets were pictures representing various scenes, together with certain marke, which the speaker predicted would, in his opinion, be ultimately determined to be either hieroglyphics or inscriptions in some heretofore unrecognized language. One carved plate of ordinary brown stone carved plate of ordinary brown stone was shown, taken from the drift at Bay Ridge, which bore the figure of a bearded man, with the arms amputated a la the Venus di Mile, and a horse's head thrown against the breast.

Some of the heads exhibited were manifestly those of Indians, other there manifestly those of Indians; others bere manifestly those of Indians; others bere strongly marked Caucasian features and were hearded. One was startling in its resemblance to Assyrian portraiture, and others still closely followed the peculiar cranial outlines of the heads depicted on the monuments of the ruined cities of Palenque, Uxinal, etc., in Mexica and Yucatan.

cities of raionque, Uxmar, etc., in Mexico and Yucatan.

It was further stated that tablets had quent taken from the drift having interior layers of clay sometimes painted, upon which human heads and scenes are depicted. One particularly alluded to bore upon it certain marks precisely similar to the wells cuts to be found. similar to the profile cuts to be found upon the oldest Roman coins. Photographs of recognized prehistoric stone implements were also exhibited which had been taken from various depths in the drift. But the most important part of the address was that which went to show the comparative relation between the objects discovered and the oldestknown coins. As is well understood by all numismatists, the earliest coins of the world bear certain symbolic representa-tions of human and animal forms, constituting the totem, or tribal marks, of the various communities which issued

The most ancient of all these marks is the colossal human head, represented both singly as the spinx and doubled as the Janus. Upon all specimens taken from the drift excepting only the tools, the speaker claimed that the human head is to be found depicted in one or the other of these forms.

A carved stone representing a collosal head in profile with a pyramid along-side of it was exhibited; also a smaller specimen of the same kind. Among the mhols found upon the specimen of the same kind. Among the symbols found upon the clay and stone objects taken from the drift also to be found upon archaic coins was mentioned the sphinx, Janus, ship, inmanheaded bull, horse-head, serpent, two serpents facing, lions facing, two human heads facing, turtle, bird's head, waterfowl, busts, jugats, sheep, wolf, elephant, dog, sea shell and dolphin.

A large line of ancient Roman and other coins was exhibited, all having cuttings in the edge of the planchets, which it was claimed were not mere accidents as heretofore supposed, but intended to represent the human mouth with small holes bored in proper relative position for the eyes, the whole making a representation of the human face in profile, following out the symbolic idea upon the objects taken from the deep deposits of the colossal head, the speaker claimed, is of the most ancient origin, and he proceeded to show that the delatined in Fordt among the speaker claimed, is of the most ancient origin, and he proceeded to show that it had obtained in Egypt, among the Romans, Gauls, Britons, and the builders of the ruined castles in Central America and Peru, predicting that time would show that the Old Man of the Mountains in New Hampshire was not a natural formation, but an archaeological a natural formation, but an archeolocal monument of the highest interest, em-bodying the symbol of the sphinx and pyramid cut in the rock by a prehisto-ric race which inhabited New England previous to the glacial epoch and the deposition of the drift.

Attention was further called to the existence upon the earliest coins of Rome of the same marking which occur upon the objects taken from the drift. These markings have never been described, having heretofore been believed to be of accidental occurrence. While not hazarding the positive statement that they have a lingual significance, the speaker stated it as his belief that such was the case, and called attention to the fact that many of the specific mens upon which they occur were as mens upon which they occur were as perfect as on the day of mintage, which precluded the possibility of their being the result of corrosion. That they were the result of corresion. In at they were not mere accidental corruscations of the metal, he claimed, was proved by their absence upon the coins of Greece, which were not only made in the same way as the coins of Rome, but had been subjected to even longer exposure by wear anp the action of the elements.

Whatever may be the merits of the claims put forward by Mr. Doughty it would seem certain that they are destined to attract widespread attention not only in this country but abroad.

A BRIDE FOR SIX HOURS. Miss Bench United to her Lover and Dies with a Smile on her Face.

Pomona, Cata, March 30 .- Miss Mollie Beach and her, parents came here from Chicago last November in the hope of finding relief for Mollie's rapidly advancing pulmonary consumption. George E. Quay, a nephew of the Pennsylvania senator, who was the accepted lover of Miss Beach, soon joined the party. Miss Beach received the best of attention and care, but she grow weather each day. In February the par-ty went to Arizona, but the disease re-mained unchecked, and two days ago the girl was told that death was only a ques-girl was told that death was only aques-tion of a few days.

Miss Beach was then persuaded by her loverto marry him. The invalid was dressed in the wedding gown which had been prepared for her when she was well and looked forward to a happy married life, and thus robed, lying upon her death bed, she was united to Quay by a preacher who was hurriedly sum-moned. Six hours later the bride died, but there was a smile of happiness up-on her face. Miss Beach was 21 years old.

The body was embalmed and will be taken to Chicago for burial. The girl had a small fortune in her own right, which she bequenthed to her lover.

New York's Big Four.

New York, March 30 .- The Times states that the Republican leaders are quietly making their arrangements for the state convention for the selection of delegates to the national convention and in the fore front of their plans, of course, is the selection of four delegates at large. The state convention will be held in Albany on April 28, and according to the present slate, the reliability of which is vouched for by most com-petent outhority, the delegates at large will be the same big four of 1888— Chauncey M. Depew, Thomas C. Platt, Senator Frank Hiscock and ex-Senator Warner Miller.

Consicana, Tex., March 30 .- A judgment was rendered here yesterday in the district court of Navarro county against the Western Union Telegraph Company for $1,000 in favor of Horaca Conton Bely raitway, residing in this city on account of a failure to deliver a telegram from some point in the state of Washington announcing the death

A Strange Accident.

WHITE BEAR, MINN., March 30.-Jonas Lavetle, eight years old, stopped on his way to school to watch the operations of a steam wood sawing machine. The balance wheel burst, a piece striking the lad in the stomach and carrying him sixty feet, completely disembowel-ing him. The piece that struck him was found a mile and a half distant.

Export Duty on Saw Logs.

Brendstuffs and Provisions.

Breadatum's and Provisions.

Chicago, Li., March 20.—Wheat made heroic efforts to sit up to-day. Its strength proved hardly sufficient for the effort, and the attempt had to be abandoned, and there seemed a good many buying orders at the start, and for a time there was a considerable display of vigor. The early cables were construed by some as rather favorable, especially those from Liverpool and domestic markets, showing an upward tendency, and there was a good dean of covering. Reported large export engagements here yesterday had a tendency to create strength and cause shorts to cover. Braidsret': report of a decrease in the available supply last week of 1.57,000 bushes was also regarded as a favorable factor. The tone soon changed to one of weakness, and before 11 o'clock the price of May went off rapidly on heavy selling. A new feature was the decline in the premium on July.
